MRS. MEREDITH TALKS EQUAL RIGHTS; CALLS HOME-MAKER GREATEST WOMAN

"To help the girl get the right man and the boy to get the right woman for a husband and a wife is the most delicate and difficult task which parents and communities face, but that is by no means a reason why they should shirk it," said Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, president of the Indiana Home Economics association, in the principal address of this morning.

That statement was but one of many which were given by her in her presentation of "Community Ideals." She urged the holding of little community gatherings in homes. Too many affairs are held at halls and other meeting places which ought to be in the home.

"There are questions raised by some people against almost every amusement of the young," she said, "but I have come to believe that nothing very harmful can happen in the home of a fairly good woman. That is the idea which Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver has so long advocated.

"If you don't like Johnny, with whom your boy is playing, don't forbid their being together. That will only cause them to meet secretly. Invite Johnny to your home. It may help Johnny, or at any rate your boy will see the difference when he gets that kind of life into the atmosphere of his home.

"We are pained constantly by mismarriages. But is it any wonder when the girls get so little chance to bring their young men friends into the family circle and compare them with her father and brothers. Boys sometimes marry girls whom they have seldom seen beside their mothers.

Have Plenty of Activities.

"The North Dakota College of Agriculture is doing a great work just now in preparing little dramas adapted to rural life and for use in country communities. The little play may be insignificant in its final form, but it is the fun of getting it up that counts."

Mrs. Meredith said that one of the greatest ideals for all of us should be to learn well to follow a leader and to subordinate ideas to those of another. Too much emphasis, she believes, has been placed upon getting leaders and too little upon the training of the great majority to follow.

"Great leadership requires that persons shall apply their knowledge and personality to the needs and open their homes to the young people of the community for rural betterment. Great opportunity does'nt come without the giving of something.

"The tenant farmer is a great problem in almost every community. While I do not advocate that we shall take him and his family into the intimate friendships of our family, I do say that the great need of rural betterment demands that he and his family be received into the collective friendship and association of the community."

Consolidated Schools Are Good.

Indiana has 685 consolidated schools, but the speaker does not believe that they are a cure-all for rural ills, even educational needs. A better work is the keeping of 500 teachers in their districts all the year round. In the summer they work in the homes instead of at school.

The state federation of women clubs in Mrs. Meredith's state has led in an agitation for permanent homes for the school teacher like the parsonage for the preacher. Mrs. Meredith came directly here from attending federation meetings in her state and will return there tonight for a home economics convention.

Mrs. Meredith changed her address somewhat from a rural to a women's lecture when she saw that most of her hearers were the rural teachers. She told of the life of Alice Freeman Palmer, called to be president of Wellesley college at an early age, and for so many years dean of women at the University of Chicago.

Her husband and biographer said of her that the great shaping influences of her life were her country rearing and narrow circumstances. The determining influence was persistent, careful, systematic, intelligent labor She was careful to see that no part of her work ever became mechanical.

Righteousness, Not Science, Needed.

"Secretary Carver, head of the rural organization service of the federal department of agriculture has said that the preacher of righteousness and not the scientific agriculturalist would solve the problem of the country. Mr. Carver was a Harvard professor before entering the government work, and the statement comes with all the more force from a man in such a position.

"Preaching is being done outside the pulpit as well as within the ministry. I say readily to you that I do not believe that we can win heaven by working for it, but that wonderful immortality will come to us only by working for the uplift of the neighbor and the one who is down."

One Bible Woman Great.

"Only one woman in the Bible is her afternoon lecture to the women on her afetrnoon lecture to the women on 'The Great Woman.' That woman is not even named, but it was the Shumanite woman at whose home Elisha stayed. And it says of her that she was a good housekeeper.

"Why was she great? First she had discernment because she saw that Elisha was a great man. She had decision because she made her husband build a new spare room for the preacher. She had judgment because when she was offered a chance to enter the court of the king she replied that her place was at home and that she chose to dwell with her own people."

Mrs. Meredith said that a woman need not look beyond the home for a place to become great. She reiterated the statement of the morning that the great work of the world was to save souls and that woman could do that best in the home.

To be a successful homemaker a woman must let her housework get on her muscles instead of her nerves. She must have poise and simplicity and manage herself. She must have knowledge of all conveniences and methods and how to get and use them. She must have common sense enough to choose recreations and get away from the house once in a while.

"It is easy for a person to earn a dollar comparatively, but it is a different proposition to spend it wisely. But almost every dollar in the United States is spent in homemaking.

"Should not an individual who has to do this spending have all the training that can be given her?" was Mrs. Meredith's great afternoon message.

COMMUNITY IDEALS.

"No mother's child is safe until every other mother's child is safe. Service for all by each and for each by all is the great ideal of family life. A woman's business is not housekeeping; that is merely the instrument through which she accomplishes her great business, the saving of souls.

Women demand three things for themselves in modern life. Social justice, a square deal for their child, and tolerance for woman's activities. The ancestral and traditional aspects of women will be heightened and deepened rather than removed by increased knowledge of and participation in the events of the world.

I once believed strongly in heredity; today I believe more and more in environment. A queen bee is a queen because of larger cell, more food and better care."—Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith.

MANY WOMEN HERE

ROOM FOR CONFERENCES CROWDED BY HOMEMAKERS.

LOCAL WOMAN SPEAKS

Mrs. Lela Bellows Tells of "Co-Operation in Community Life—Economics Questions Interesting.

A crowded room with a number of women standing up greeted the speakers for the first women's conference yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Lela Bellows of Maryville spoke on "Co-Operation in Community Development." She said that in most places the people were lying in indifference like sleeping giants, not knowing their strength if they would only get together. She spoke of the closeness of the whole world today as shown by the wireless telephone messages across the Atlantic, and said that we must learn to be more neighborly.

Miss Kneeland told the women of various suggestions for preparing the daily menu. She urged that women should keep a record of the meat and other supplies to see whether they are spending too much. The planning of meals in advance so that the proper variety may be secured was recommended.

Miss Hettie M. Anthony of the Normal spoke on "Home Economics in Community Development." She said that millions were being spent on corn and hog development and very little on the child.

"It is just as important that the growing child get protein, the muscle builder, in proper amounts, as it is that the shoat does. Yet many a child is stupid and even degenerate because of misfeeding. And girls can be taught to dress their dolls in the latest fashions or in sensible styles as well as if every doll were a baby."

AUSTRIANS LOST 50,000

In Ten Days Fighting on Italian Front—Italians Making Progress.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Paris, Oct. 30.—It is estimated that the Austrians lost 50,000 killed, wounded and taken prisoners in ten days fighting on Italians front. Italians are continuing their terrific offensive against Piezzo, Gorizia and Tolmino and are making progress.

BARNARD BEAT PICKERING

Final Score Was 47 to 26, But Losers Lead at End of First Half 22-21—A Good Game.

Barnard beat Pickering high school in a game of basket ball in the Normal gymnasium yesterday afternoon 47-26. The game was not that one-sided, however, as Pickering was leading in the first half 22-21.

Barnard won by the ability to use the short pass. Pickering tried to throw from one end of the court to the other almost every time. The work of Paul Spaulding at center and of the two forwards for Barnard, Virgil Robinson and Eugene Gardner, was notable

Several of the high school men here watched the game with interest. And they'll keep their eyes on Barnard for that county championship.

MEAL FOR 70 FOR $1.65

Training School Eighth Grade Demonstrates Possibility of Economy in Menus at Meal Yesterday.

A nice meal for seventy persons for $1.65 was the seemingly impossible feat which was performed by the eighth grade of the Normal training school yesterday. The class has been doing work under Miss Anna Bainum, assistant to Miss Anthony, in the economy of preparing meals.

The menu was all worked out by the children themselves, and the parents of most of them were present to enjoy the meal at noon in the rooms of the training school just at the close of the morning sessions.

Here was what every person was offered: Apple salad with cooked dressing, wafers and cider, two bread and butter sandwiches. The estimate of the pupils was that the meal would cost at least $2.50, but the total was only $1.65.

DR. FRACKER WILL SPEAK

Presbyterian Educational Superintendent to Hold Conference at Maryville Church Tomorrow.

The Rev. George D. Fracker, Ph. D., superintendent of religious education of the Presbyterian synods of Iowa, Missouri and Kansas, will arrive in Maryville tonight from Kansas City, and tomorrow will conduct a Sunday school workers' conference at the First Presbyterian church.

While here Mr. Fracker will be the guest of Prof. George H. Colbert, who is an old friend and school associate, and of the pastor, the Rev. William Moll Case.

Dr. Fracker is an acknowledged leader in religious education. He is particularly fitted for this work by his long educational career.

Following his graduation from the state university of Iowa, Dr. Fracker was assistant teacher of psychology in Columbia university. He then taught for eight years in the public schools of Iowa, followed that by a ten-year period as teacher in Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and then taught four years in the Michigan state normal at Marquette, Mich.

Mr. Fracker's special duty on his trip to Maryville and other places in his territory is to present the Presbyterian plan for the religious educational work of the individual church. In his lectures, Dr. Fracker has a faculty of making every one who hears him sit up and take notice of the things he advocates. His theme is "Organization and Administration of Church Educational Work."

Dr. Fracker will have a part in the other services of the day at the Presbyterian church, and the afternoon conference is open to everyone.

Returns to Chicago.

Edwin Bellows of Chicago returned to his home last night after a few days visit in the city with his brothers, Charles and Fayette Bellows and families.

Seattle Visitors Leave.

Mrs. William Johnston of Seattle, Wash., and her small son, William, Jr., who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Johnston's brothers, Charles and Fayette Bellows and families and other relatives, left this morning for their home. They were accompanied to St. Joseph by Charles Bellows, Jr.

TO GIVE RURAL TRACK MEET

A rural track meet under the auspices of the Nodaway County Teachers Association was planned for this morning in the business meeting of the pedagogues. All details were left to a committee but it is known that it will be along the lines of the meet held this week by the training school.

Coach Walter Hanson is chairman of the committee and manager of the meet. The other members are Miss Boggs, head of the girls' athletics at the Normal; Eugene Bird of Hopkins; Leonard Mendenhall, Barnard; George W. Somerville, Clearmont; Paul Becker, Maryville high school.

The committee will meet at the call of the chairman in the near future to make the plans. Sectional meets may be held instead of a county contest.

TEACHERS HEAR EACH OTHER TALK

CONFERENCES TAKE MOST OF TIME YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

OAKERSON SPEAKS TO JOINT SESSION

Elementary and Secondary Teachers Then Divide for Particular Problems—Normal Faculty Speak.

"Consolidation of districts is the only solution of the problem in many rural communities," said W. M. Oakerson, assistant state superintendent of schools and former county superintendent of Nodaway county, in the principal address of the Teachers' association.

Elm Grove district, which recently built such a fine new school house has an assessed valuation of $135,000. Swinford district has but $35,000. Will anything but consolidation smooth out that inequality of opportunity for education of those children."

Mr. Oakerson discussed the state aid for schools. He said that sixty-two schools in the county get aid from the state as an attempt to make the inequalities less flagrant.

Prof. Egbert Jennings, county superintendent of the Gentry county schools, was chairman of the joint session which Professor Oakerson addressed. Prof. H. B. Schuler of the Normal sang a solo and Prof. Harry Miller gave a reading. The teachers then divided into sections, the elementary teachers remaining in the auditorium for a conference on their work, conducted by Prof. S. E. Davis, head of the department of education of the Normal.

Prof. W. J. Osburn of the department of psychology of the Normal, was the first speaker of the elementary conference. "Troublesome Types of Children and How to Deal With Them" was his subject.

"The school work of this country is too much memory and too little initiative," said Mr. Osburn. "We punish too much as a penalty and too seldom with a motive of replacing a bad tendency with a good one.

He then took up the actual teaching work of the schools. Athletics and games as a spur to good effort were indorsed. He recommended careful effort on the part of the teacher to discover whether the child is mentally and physically normal. Many a boy is bad because he has much surplus energy, he said. We should seek the aid of the parents in correcting all faults.

W. H. Burr, in a short talk on the gradation and classification of pupils, urged the use of the Missouri course of study as a guide for more system in the lessons and better supplementary work.

Three five-minute talks were then made on "What I have done to bring about a closer relation between the school and the community." Miss Ruby Ruddell said that her experience has been that the best way to get along is to get acquainted.

Orlo W. Bond said that he tried as far as possible to make the school house a social center in which literary societies, clubs, little fairs and any entertainments may meet. A trading library was recommended as a great help in interesting parts of a community.

Miss Naomi Horne told of her work in the Lasher district with the Homemakers club, which meets every two weeks, and the lecture course which is being put on by her school this year in a rural district.

Dean George H. Colbert closed the elementary program with a discussion of "How to Teach Arithmetic." He said that a successful teacher of that branch of school work must have three qualifications: To know the student, the subject, and then to use "gumption." Things must be found as subjects for the problems which will interest the individuals with whom the teacher works. The teacher must also know that numbers are an abstract thing and understand how they are built.

High School Section.

Prof. W. M. Westbrook had charge of a sectional meeting to discuss the work of the secondary schools. Prof.

Announcement.

We are authorized to announce Robert I. Young of Buchanan county, as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Fourth district subject to the primary election to be held August 8, 1916.

Tonight is Hallowe'en. If you believe in preparedness, prepare.

King George doesn't seem to know any more about horseback riding than he does about war.

This has been a great week for the farmers. There has been a most excellent program at the institute here and there has been fine weather for work at home.

Isn't it awful, these Democratic hard times! Why, poor Jake Babler, chairman of the Republican state committee, needed a pig pen on his country place, near St. Louis, and had to build it out of reinforced concrete, with shower baths and separate dining rooms.—St. Louis Times.

Every Democratic member of congress who helped to put President Wilson's policies into effect, should be returned the coming election. The Democratic party is on trial now—and no new and unseasoned timber is needed during this period.—St. Joseph Observer.

MADE A BAD BARGAIN.

Twenty dollars a year is the salary a Nodaway county man can earn in the next twelve months by keeping out of Maryville. He was fined $20 on a charge of drunkenness and a stay entered provided he would absent himself from the city for that period. Maryville is such a good town that it would seem the defendant has made a bad bargain by not paying the fine.—St. Joseph Observer.

NEW OWNER HERE.

Ward Derossett Takes Possession of the Toggery Shop.

Ward Derossett of Savannah, the new owner of the Toggery Shop, who purchased it last week from R. W. Pettit, took possession yesterday of the business. Mr. Derossett expects to bring his family to Maryville at once to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Pettit will leavcv Monday for San Diego, Cal., where they will spend the winter with Mr. Pettit's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pettit.

INFANT CHILD DIES.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Verline, the 13-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, living seven miles south of the city, died at 7 o'clock this morning.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the White Cloud Baptist church, south of the city, and the burial will be in the White Cloud cemetery.

To Visit in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Souls of Mount Ayr, Ia., who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. C. E. Gregory left yesterday for Bedford, Ia., to visit Arnold Souls and family.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

George W. Somerville discussed "Why Do High School Pupils Quit Before Finishing the Course, and How Remedy." He urged that the school be made more attractive, but said that even attractiveness might be overdone.

This State Normal school is most attractive, but even it couldn't withstand the drawing qualities of some fine October days, Prof Hawkins said in a discussion which followed. Discussion of vocational subjects was held. The speaker held that there were some boys and girls who might as well be let go.

Miss Bessie Cox of the Barnard high school spoke on "How to Vitalize the Teaching of High School English." She urged the impressing of the fundamentals first, then much reading of the classics and masterpieces. The student must be allowed imagination and other books beside the textbooks must be used. Free discussion of lectures from a literary standpoint in the class room was recommended.

Prof. Albert Harris of Pickering high school said that he would leave Latin and similar subjects out of the course for a two-year high school. He urged that the curriculum be built more for the majority who never get any more schooling instead of for the few who go on to high schools and college.

Prof. G. N. Geyer of the Graham schools, in a discussion of the topic, said that one must suit a two-year course to local needs, but that there were certain broad subjects that were needed anywhere. He warned against the omitting of the cultural element in education.

T. W. Cooper of the Skidmore schools urged that some means be found of sending home reports which would stimulate interest by the parent. The grading of papers and then sending them to the parents was recommended. Getting parents to visit the school was mentioned as one of the most effective of means for creating interest in the report cards.

Prof. W. M. Westbrook spoke of social work in the high school. He said that we might as well recognize that social life in the school can't be made to compete with picture shows. He outlined briefly the clubs and social center work of the Maryville high school.

Institute Notes

The banquet which was to have been held tonight was called off by the committee because of the apparent lack of interest on the part of the farmers for whom it was being arranged.

The art exhibit of the training school is one of the distinctive features of the week. The work done by the pupils is of very high order and many of the visitors have remarked over the excellence of the art exhibit.

Eighty-four boys took the seed corn provided by A. R. Hills last spring and forty-one of them had brought in samples yesterday afternoon. Mr. Hills is offering special cash prizes amounting to $25.50 in this section, the first being $10, second $7.50, third $5, and three more at $1 each.

Clotilda King and Elizabeth Abels, 13 and 14 years old, of the convent at Clyde have drawn attention to themselves by their butter making. Both were prize winners.

One part of the exhibit looks like a corner of Santa Claus' sled, where the twenty-seven dolls are placed. A fashion show is also given by the dressing of the dolls for the prizes.

One chocolate cake with the letters "Liberty School" embossed in white and one angel food cake with "Maryville, Oct. 27 to 30," written in pink are getting considerable attention of visitors. The chocolate cake was baked by Miss Maggie Lawrence, aged 10, and the angel food by Miss Jennie Cox, age 14.

Miss Hildegarde Kneeland assisted Miss Hettie M. Anthony in judging the Home Economics exhibits. She is a member of the home economics department of the extension division of the University of Missouri.

The long stalks of alfalfa and clover drew the farmers around who were not familiar with the former. Exhibits of freaky size, as a sunflower fifteen inches across and a huge turnip were also present.

Those in charge of the exhibit say that no one in particular was suspected, but it was noticed that some care-taker was kept near the table upon which the tempting home-made candy was placed.

A large color map of North America by Margaret Neidel of the eighth grade of the Mt. Pleasant school was admired. Mt. Pleasant was one of the well represented schools.

The Y. W. C. A. of the Normal has had a booth in the lower hall all the week, where attractive posters and more attractive home-made candy from the chafing dishes of the damsels have been sold.

The new Normal road has become very dusty with the automobiles, jitneys and other vehicles which have crowded out to the administration building this week.

The Hallowe'en festivals of the training school were very attractive. The pumpkins and other posters were cut out by the kindergarten department. Grades 2, 3 and 4 designed and cut out the pictures of cats, mice and bats; the candle shades were made by grades 5 and 6, and the decorations and invitations were designed and made by the eighth grade. The seventh grade were guests of the other grades.

Forty-four loaves of bread along a long table have attracted much attention from the women, because they were baked by girls under 20.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

FINISH SOWING WHEAT.

During the last few weeks farmers have had many false alarms on account of small hopping insects which have been mistaken for the Hessian fly. Many samples of these leaf-hoppers are being received by the Missouri agricultural experiment station. They are small and when very abundant in wheat may injure it somewhat if warm weather continues long enough, but their injury is usually not severe.

These leaf-hoppers vary from an inch to a quarter of an inch in length, jump as grasshoppers do, and may be green, gray or variously colored and striking. In addition to these points which distinguish them from the tiny mosquito-like Hessian flies, the hoppers have four wings while the fly has only two.

As there are rarely any Hessian flies feeding this late in the fall, all wheat sowing should be finished at once if not already done. There need be absolutely no delay on account of the hoppers.

THE CLOSED ROAD

By KEITH KENYON.

When Bert Perry closed his desk on Friday night he hadn't any very distinct idea of where to go, but as he passed to the elevator and looked at the door of the office that used to be Jane Tenny's he decided on a trip to Piney Roads. Jane Tenny had been a public stenographer, but when things had grown dull in Wall street she had given up her business venture and moved off to Piney Roads to seek her fortune in chickens and fruit farming.

It was a six o'clock Saturday evening and Bert decided that his first stop would be at the Piney Roads hotel.

"It's a neatly kept little place," thought Bert, as he surveyed the symmetrical rows of hollyhocks on either side of the path, "although it doesn't seem very large."

Then he sounded his horn for someone to come and take his car, but no one seemed to be stirring and there was no sign of a garage. He sounded long and impatiently until at last from behind the house appeared an old man in overalls.

"There ain't any garage round here," drawled the man. "You'll have to take your machine down to the crossing."

"Where is the proprietor?" Bert was getting impatient and, as the old man seemed not to understand, he added, "the man who keeps the place, I mean."

"Oh, now I understand," drawled the old man, chuckling. "It ain't a man—it's a lady. She was back in the orchard picking cherries, and she said she had just stepped in to tidy up a bit and would be out soon. Here she is."

When Bert caught sight of a pink dress and then he recognized Jane—Jane, whose interesting, pale face had grown positively pretty since her sojourn in the country.

And how unembarrassed and cordial she was! She really seemed to be glad to see him.

"From the garden I could see it was you," she said, "and I just had to take off my sunbonnet. I don't want you to make fun of my farming."

There followed a few explanations.

"No, I am not the proprietor of the hotel," Jane assured him. "There must be some mistake in the road book. In fact, you are the third tourist today who has come here with that idea. And you really came all the way up here to see me? Why didn't you let me know?"

Just then another car pulled into that driveway, a car of French build that made Bert's modest roadster look insignificant.

"I say," called one of its two occupants to the farmer, who was just making his way back to the orchard, "where is the garage of this establishment? We'll drive right in and you have the proprietor ready to see us when we get back here. We've only twenty minutes for dinner."

"That's the way it's been all the afternoon," said Jane, when she had explained to the distinguished-looking tourists that her modest little house made no pretentions at being a hostelry.

"That's a great disappointment," said one of the men. "It promised to be something out of the ordinary in the way of inns. When I saw it I felt certain you'd give us a dinner worth eating. What? Back one road? Thank you."

"I've been looking at your road book and it says that the way to get to the inn is to turn at the second road after you leave the pike. Well, the county has just closed up the first road and put a row of poplars across it. That accounts for the confusion."

It was not until after Jane's delightful little supper, served on the open veranda, that she showed her guest over the place, the orchards and the berry patches, the poultry yard and the neatly kept truck garden.

"But the worst of it all is," she confessed rather dolefully, "it doesn't pay any better than Wall street."

"Jane, I've just had an inspiration," he said, very solemnly. "You say that you want to make some money. Why, this very afternoon you have had a chance to make more money than we've been making in Wall street for a week, or that you can get from your farm for many a day. The inn down the road is no good, I am told, and the owner doesn't care whether he has any patrons or not. There are dozens of motorists along here every day who would stop for dinner or luncheon if they knew you had good things to eat. This road catches an unusually high-class traffic. Think about it, and in the meantime don't write to the road book people to change the directions."

"It's too much of an undertaking for a woman alone. If I had a man to go in with me—" She blushed in spite of herself as she realized the full significance of those words.

"Jane," he said, "I've been waiting for this chance for more than a year. I'm tired of being a broker. Let's go into partnership. I'll buy out your place here and you go on raising hollyhocks and wearing becoming pink gowns, and I'll bloom forth as a country hotelkeeper. How does it strike you, little girl?"

"I think you would make an ideal boniface," she laughed bewitchingly.

SOCIETY and CLUBLAND

By KATE SCHENCK
PHONES—OFFICE 42. HOME 683

Motor Party.

Mrs. Hattie Patterson, Miss Edith Patterson and Ralph Patterson and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright and children, Hazel and Harold of Harrisonville, Mo., motored to Maryville Tuesday and spent the day visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson.

Entertains Class.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Garten entertained classes five and six with a Hallowe'en party Thursday night at the Hall home. Everything in the way of entertainment decoration and supper was in colors and designs suggestive of Hallowe'en. About forty guests were entertained.

Mr. Leet Host.

Mr. H. F. Leet entertained a party of friends at a card supper last night at his home, on East Fourth street. The guests were W. C. Pierce, F. P. Reuillard, Bert Raines, Will J. Montgomery, W. F. Phares, Augustus Rommsser and C. W. Yehle.

Entertains Society.

Mrs. James F. Colby entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church with a kensington and tea yesterday afternoon at her home A part of the time was devoted to the discussion of business plans for winter work, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent socially.

School Gives Party.

The patrons and teacher of the Garrett school district enjoyed a Hallowe'en party given by the children Thursday afternoon at the school house. A James Whitcomb Riley program was given and the school house was decorated with autumn leaves and Hallowe'en colors and emblems. Refreshments of pop corn and candy were served by the pupils of the eighth grade.

McDowell Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McDowell were the hosts of a dinner party given Thursday noon at their country home at which plates were laid for Mrs. Hattie Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright and children Hazel, Harold, Edith and Ralph of Harrisonville, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson, A. T. McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ferguson, Miss Mabel Patterson, Robert and James Patterson, Forrest McDowell and the hosts.

Guild Entertained.

The Westminster Guild met Thursday night at the home of Miss Helen Leffler, holding one of the most entertaining meetings of the fall. After a short business meeting during which plans for future work were discussed the study was taken up with Mrs. William Moll Case as leader. The home had been attractively decorated with autumn leaves and Jack-o'-lanterns and an autumn supper was served during the social hour. Miss Jessie Parcher and Miss Helen Todd assisted the hostess.

Surprise Party.

The Merry Minglers Club arranged a surprise yesterday for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henson, who are leaving soon for Trinity, Texas, to make their home. The hours were spent informally and those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smock, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lund, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stein and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Dever, Mr. and Mrs. James Lacy and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Belcher and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Dickerson, Mrs. E. A. Nelson and family, Mrs. F. A. Ditto, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Fallon and family, Mrs. Albert Mercer, Mrs. Gordon Fite, Mrs. W. M. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mallon and daughter, Mrs. Charles Fakes and son, Floyd, of Pickering; J. V. Lynch, Miss Jessie Fisher and Frank Fisher.

H. H. Club Entertains.

The H. H. Club gave a Hallowe'en party last night at the home of Miss Eva Burks, entertaining the members and a few other friends. The home was attractive with autumn leaves and Hallowe'en colors and the evening was devoted to the games and amusements significant of the night. A three course supper was served and the table was centered with a cleverly arranged pumpkin piece. With the last course a large Hallowe'en cake was served, the cake when cut, being made of Hallowe'en favors for each guest. After supper, the guests went out doors where around a large bonfire they told ghost stores and toasted marshmallows Tose present were Mr. and Mrs. William Bosch, Miss Nellie Morford, Miss Eva Burks, Miss Stella Wilson, Miss Myrtle Null, Miss Hazel Burks, Miss Bessie Ashford, Miss Ida Bosch, Edward Hanna, Erma Hackett, Otho McDowell, Allen Burks, Russell Neal, Virgil Hyde and Prof. George Harris.

Gives Hallowe'en Party.

Miss Josephine Wilderman was the hostess on an attractively arranged Hallowe'en party given last night at the Wilderman home, on East Lawn avenue. The entire home was decorated with autumn leaves and favors of the season. Both outside and inside the guests were greeted by the proper number of ghosts, and after their arrival were served cider from a huge pumpkin well, Miss May Mahoney serving, assisted by Miss Greta Kemp and Miss Alice Mahoney. Fortunes were told by two amateur clairvoyants Miss Doris Sayler, dressed as a witch, and Harley Hughes, disguised as a gipsy, both of whom proved very popular in their roles. In a musical romance, read by the hostess and accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. T. L. Wilderman, the most correct answers were given by Miss Doris Sayler, who won the prize. After supper was served the entire party gathered in the living room, the lights were turned low and ghost stories told, Philip Colbert taking the leading role. The hostess was assisted during the evening's entertainment by Mr. and Mrs. Wilderman, Miss Eva Rittenour, Miss Doris Sayler, Misses May and Alma Mahoney, Hazel Littler, Greta Kemp, Vera Hughes and Odette Wilderman, William Hutchison, Omar Lyle, Eugene Yehle, Clark Evans, Harley Hughes and Martin Lewis, Jr.

Entertain at Manse.

The Rev. and Mrs. William Moll Case entertained the members of the choir of the First Presbyterian church with a Hallowe'en party at the Manse last night. The evening was one of merry making and various games and contests provided amusement. The home was attractive with decorations of Hallowe'en favors and colors. A three reel movie was one of the main features and partners were chosen for supper by the girls guessing the names of a tune hummed by the men. Fortunes were placed in black witch figures and each hunted until one of them was found. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, Miss Mary Lewis, Miss Helen Todd, Miss Jean Horn, Miss Edna Deitz, Miss Martha Koch, Miss Blanche Criswell, Miss Neva Sage, Miss Lois Farmer, Harvey McClary, Fred Lewis, Harold Staples, Fred Vandersloot, Mr. Price, Mr. Elliott and Prof. George McGrew.

Miss Swinford Hostess.

Miss Lavisa Swinford entertained a number of her friends last night with a Hallowe'en party at her home. The rooms were brightened with the season's colors of orange and black and autumn leaves. The time was spent with informal games and a supper was served. The guests were Miss Alta Doyle, Miss Maud Helpley, Miss Lois Wiley, Miss Martha Helpley, Miss Mina Everist, Miss Anice Garten, Miss Helen Davis, Miss Marie Landfather, Miss Ada Gingrich, Virgil Vulgamott, Orlo Gingrich, Sam Vulgamott, Virgil Grooms, Dean Partridge, Ralph Wray, Merle Selecman, Walter Wilson, James Halasey, Arthur Wilson and Harry Jones.

Celebrates Fifth Birthday.

Isabel, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hamlin, celebrated her fifth birthday anniversary yesterday and to mark the day, she invited a party of her small friends in to spend the afternoon. The gathering was a Hallowe'en party and the favors and games were of the spirit of that day. The colors of pink and white were used in the refreshments served. Mrs. Hamlin was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Fidelia Gearhart, Miss Clara Young and Miss Lois Hall in entertaining the children present who were Lois Gilbert, Marian Gann, Elizabeth Flynt, Edwyna Forsyth, Katherine Chandler, Esther Roseberry, Eva Margaret Frank, Gladys Holmes, Winifred, Mary and Genevieve Todd, Margaret Louise Moyer, Beverly Alice Martin, Eula Yowell, Lillian Hall, Oliver Manley, Edwin Manley, James Frank and Isabel Hamlin.

BRIDGE WORK FINISHED.

Seven New Bridges Built and a Few Repaired—Starting Work in Jefferson Township.

Judge Matt Farnan, a member of the county court, returned yesterday evening from an inspection trip in Washington and Jefferson townships to see the bridge work being done. In Washington township, seven new bridges have been built by the county and several have been repaired and refloored. The work there amounts to about $1,500 and is now nearly finished. Charles and John Hollensbee had the contract, working under direction of J. E. Reece.

They are now starting in Jefferson township on bridges, two have already been built and several more yet to build and repair.

PLUS PROFITS

Business is in a constant state of evolution. It is a mistake to think that any one stage—the present for example—is final

Methods that worked splendidly a few years ago will spell failure if applied today. The merchants who depend on personal influence, who waits for the buyer to come along, are the ones who are increasing the per centage of business failures.

You wouldn't go back to the days of the errand boy for telepone, the courier for the telegraph service, The modern, the successful and the method of today in selling merchandise is by advertising: It is the greatest insurance against loss in merchandising that has ever been invented. It is the Plus Profit method.

Look around you. Who is the successful merchant, the successful business man of today? Certainly it is the advertiser, the man who goes after trade with publicity,

Watch the advertisers of the commuity and although you may know nothing of that community otherwise, you have a very nearly sure knowledge of who are the leading merchants of that community. You will find that Mr. Advertiser is the one who is doing the most and profitable business. He is the one who is adding profits instead of waiting for profits which never come.

You can't expect to sell goods unless you tell the buyer about them. Modern buying is done first through the advertising. It is getting to be the rule that most buying is done before the buyer ever reaches the store. It is done by the Plus Profit method of the successful bnsiness man, the merchant who tells the buyer about his goods through advertising.

ABOUT HEAVES IN HORSES

Heaves is a very common and annoying disease of horses, interfering seriously with the usefulness of the animal, and consequently detracting from its value. Mainly a disease of old horses, it is essentially the result of faulty feeding and working, especially hard pulling or fast driving when the stomach is overloaded. Gross feeders are frequently subjects of heaves.

Except in the very early stages the disease is readily detected. The symptoms are those which would naturally be manifested in a condition where the lungs are involved. A peculiar short, grunt-like cough is usually present, and when the animal is exerted a wheezing noise accompanies the breathing. The principal and characteristic symptom, however, is the jerky or double movement of the abdomen in an effort to force air from the lungs. The air passes into them freely, but the power to expel it is lost to a great extent; therefore the abdominal muscles are brought into play.

Indigestion is frequently observed in these cases, and the horse may have a depraved appetite, as shown by a desire to eat dirt and soiled bedding; and there is a tendency to the condition commonly termed "potbellied." The animal, though a heavy feeder, becomes unthrifty and emaciated.

As in this condition structural changes have taken place in the lungs, treatment, as a rule, can only be directed to the relief of the symptoms, and it is not possible to effect a complete cure after the disease is established.

In the case of an affected horse it will be an advantage to dampen the food with a mixture of one part of molasses to three parts of water, so that no dust may arise while the animal is eating. It is also desirable to restrict the amount of hay or forage, as large quantities of bulky feed which distend the abdomen increase the difficulty, and an animal with heaves should never be driven or worked when full of such material.

In these cases Fowler's solution of arsenic may be given in doses of 1 ounce in the drinking water three times daily. Ordinary lime dissolved in drinking water (limewater) may be added to a barrel or cask of water, and after the resulting mixture has become clear through precipitation of undissolved portions of the lime the limewater may be used freely in watering the animal.

THE WALTZ

By LOUISE OLIVER.

Billy Kennard opened the door of his dreary little bedroom and held a match to the gas jet before removing his hat. The reflection that sprang into view in the mirror of the bureau showed a face strong and good-looking, but full of trouble-drawn lines.

Failure in one's life work—music it was with Billy—is bad enough, but to fall in love with a girl as far above you as the planets is just about the limit of human endurance. Tonight he had seen her again, more beautiful than ever.

He looked at himself now in the mirror. "You poor penniless fool," he muttered, "to go crazy over a girl when it's all you can do to live. Who are you to even think of her?"

But in spite of his words, he opened an evening paper to the society column. He watched daily for her name, or rather for her family's name, for he did not know which of the Etheridge girls she was.

An item caught his eye and he read it eagerly. The Etheridges were to be at the Arlingfords' bal masque on the next night! And he was to play there after the theater!

He finally went to bed and dreamed of columbines and shepherdesses, queens and flower girls, all with eyes like those of the girl he loved, begging him to play the "Dream" waltz.

The next day was years long, and the play that night dragged insufferably. At last he was free, however, and, with the other members of the orchestra, he put his violin in its case and took the subway to the Arlingfords.

He was accustomed to the extravagance of the rich, but the magnificence of the ballroom tonight fairly took his breath. "I must put all this nonsense of mine out of my head," he thought. "A girl accustomed to things like this is not for me even to think about." And resolving to put away forever the little waltz, the music he had learned to associate with the girl, he took his place among the musicians on the stage.

Henry of Navarre danced with Mother Goose, Napoleon with Dolly Madison, and a Crusader with Miss Muffet. Clowns and columbines, Turks and fairies, soldiers and milkmaids flew past in a mad whirl, but all were masked and Billy had no idea which maid might be the girl he adored.

In spite of his newly-made resolutions, he watched eagerly during the unmasking, hoping to catch a glimpse of the girl, but she was not to be seen.

A servant handed him an envelope. He read the inclosed note eagerly. Someone had asked him to meet her in the winter garden immediately.

Billy crushed the note into his pocket, made his excuses, and, with the aid of the servant, found the winter garden.

Under a bay tree, looking as demure as a Quakeress, was the missing Miss Etheridge. She smiled and held out her hand.

"Good evening, Mr. Kennard."

Billy was afraid to touch her hand, and more afraid to speak. But it was up to him to say something.

"I am—you are—that is—were you the person who sent for me?" he began awkwardly, after he had taken her hand for an instant. He knew he was bungling dreadfully and reddened.

"Yes. Won't you sit down?" She smiled.

"I sent for you," she went on, "to find out why you don't play that beautiful waltz you composed. I spoke to Mr. Richard Amberson, a friend of Mr. Etheridge, about it. He is the music publisher, you know, and he is here tonight waiting to hear your music."

Billy gasped. "You spoke to Richard Amberson for me! Why, if he'd take hold of my work it would make my fortune. How in the world can I thank you, Miss Etheridge?"

"Don't thank me! Besides I'm not Miss Etheridge. I'm Marjorie Watson, at your service," with a jolly little bow. "Poor relative and social secretary rolled into one, and treated better than she deserves by everyone," she added.

Billy's head was swimming. Things were happening too fast for him to comprehend.

His goddess was not only stepping down to earth smiling, but she was holding out promises for the future.

"It is all too wonderful to be true, Miss Watson. I can scarcely believe that I am awake. But I'll answer your question about the waltz. I have learned to associate it with you and—" he stopped.

"Well?" demurely.

"I cannot tell you part without telling all," he went on quickly, "and I cannot do that—now. You have known me only ten minutes and you wouldn't understand, I'm afraid. I thought you were Miss Etheridge," he added.

Marjorie stood up and laid her hand on his arm. "Perhaps I understand more than you think," she said. "Won't you come tomorrow and tell me all about it?"

"Yes," agreed Billy eagerly.

"Then let us go back so you can dig up your waltz from the bottom of the pile and play it for Richard Amberson," Marjorie said mischievously. "I'll hunt him up and tell him to listen."

MISS EVA MILLER WINS

Miss Cleta Rasco of Barnard Got Second—Boys Both Won, Being in Different Classes.

Miss Eva Miller of Clearmont won the girls' declamation contest in the auditorium last night with Longfellow's "Famine." This was the only real rivalry, as both of the boys were given gold medals, being in different classes, according to the size of the high schools.

The silver medal went to Miss Eva Rasco of Barnard, who gave Kate Douglas Wiggin's "The Ruggles Family." The third declamation by Miss Mary E. Barrrett of Skidmore, was good and she was rated high by the judges, but the length of her selection, "The Going of the White Swan," probably caused her defeat, as the rules of the contest caused a penalty for every minute more than the time allotted which was used.

Miss Katherine Carpenter played a violin solo in the place of the Normal quartet, which was on the program. Miss Elizabeth Hoover gave a reading which was much enjoyed, on "Baby Talk." She is a student at the Normal.

Berney Harris, Jr., of the Maryville high school and Albert Patton of Barnard were given gold medals for their addresses, as they were in different classes. Harris gave "The American Flag," by Beecher, and Patton "The Vision of War," by Robert Ingersoll. Each added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

PLANT FRUIT TREES AT ONCE.

All perfectly hardy trees should be transplanted in the fall rather than the following spring if we can rely upon the results of tests made at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. Jonathan apple trees planted in the fall made nearly twice as good a growth as those planted the next spring. Of cherry trees transplanted in the fall of 1913 every one lived while only a third of those planted in the spring of 1914 survived the dry summer of that year. Those which did live made only a quarter as good a growth as those planted the fall before. This comparison is based mainly on the terminal growth or length added to the branches which is a very important means of telling how an orchard is thriving. Even peach trees and others less hardy than apple and cherry trees do better when fall planted in the southern quarter of Missouri. Fall planting is better even farther north if followed by a mild winter but a severe winter is likely to kill the trees.

In ordering fruit trees for fall planting, insist that they be dug and shipped just when the leaves begin to fall and the remaining leaves can be easily stripped from the nursery stock. These young, rapidly growing trees hold their leaves from two weeks to a month longer than those in the orchard which have been bearing for some time. During most seasons the best time for transplanting is during the first half of November but planting any time before the ground freezes has been found to give better results than spring planting.—J. C. Whitten, Horticulture, University of Missouri.

WHAT THE EXPERTS SAID

BRIEF RESUMES OF MESSAGES TO FARMERS YESTERDAY.

Talbert, Childers, Severin and Miss Kneeland Tell of Various Farm Problems.

R. A. Kinnaird of the Normal spoke to the farmers this afternoon on "Tile Drainage". He dwelt particularly on seepage on hillsides, which are so common in rolling country. He said that this was caused by a layer of clay and that the tile must be placed above that or no good will be accomplished. The proper method of laying the tile, getting the grade and cementing the mouth with a grating to keep out small animals was told.

The problem of the school lunch was discussed by Miss Kneeland in the joint session this morning. She dwelt upon the fact that they should be changed from day to day and that a balanced meal rather than too much of any one kind of food be given for the noon meal away from home.

Mr. Gromer discussed in his morning speech the question of getting proper rural credit. The moving of crops, farm loans, mortgages and other problems were taken up. Several of the laws in this state and others were briefly taken up.

"One-fifth of the vegetable crop is destroyed yearly by insects. That means a $60,000,000 loss," said H. H. Severin of the deparment of biology at the Normal, who spoke to the men's section of the Farm and Home Institute yesterday afternoon on "Pests of the Home Garden." The various pests and their habits were described and all kinds of poisons, contact incesticides, repellants, and other means of removing the cause of so great a loss was outlined by Mr. Severin.

How to save the orchards from the ravages of the San Jose scale, the codling moth, the plum curculio, the canker worm, and the borers, were discussed by Mr. Talbert in the men's section this afternoon. This came with special interest to many of the Nodaway farmers there as a recent letter from an agricultural expert said that many Missouri apples could not be sold at all, and others have a slow sale because the orchards have not been sprayed and the fruit is not sound.

"Crop rotation," by Mr. Childers this afternoon continued his lectures to the farmers on the proper care of the soil, in saving waste and building up the land. A general summing up was made of the substance of his preceding lectures. Not only to vary crops on any field, but to have a proper sequence which will destroy pests and help the soil.

ALLEGED DRUNK WALKS LINE.

Returns on His Hands and Justice Promptly Dismisses Him.

Nashville, Ind.—Justice of the Peace Duard Calvin has a novel plan of determining whether a man is drunk or sober. Marshal Reed arrested Lenville Copenhaver for drunkenness and took the man before the justice in the Calvin store. Calvin was entertaining a bunch of "loafers" and for their entertainment drew a chalk line forty feet long and told Copenhaver to walk the line.

The crowd gathered on each side of Copenhaver, and he walked the line without a misstep. At the far end of the line he stood on his hands and walked back. Calvin, above the roar of laughter, told Copenhaver he was dismissed.

"To help the girl get the right man and the boy to get the right woman for a husband and a wife is the most delicate and difficult task which parents and communities face, but that is by no means a reason why they should shirk it," said Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, president of the Indiana Home Economics association, in the principal address of this morning.

That statement was but one of many which were given by her in her presentation of "Community Ideals." She urged the holding of little community gatherings in homes. Too many affairs are held at halls and other meeting places which ought to be in the home.

"There are questions raised by some people against almost every amusement of the young," she said, "but I have come to believe that nothing very harmful can happen in the home of a fairly good woman. That is the idea which Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver has so long advocated.

"If you don't like Johnny, with whom your boy is playing, don't forbid their being together. That will only cause them to meet secretly. Invite Johnny to your home. It may help Johnny, or at any rate your boy will see the difference when he gets that kind of life into the atmosphere of his home.

"We are pained constantly by mismarriages. But is it any wonder when the girls get so little chance to bring their young men friends into the family circle and compare them with her father and brothers. Boys sometimes marry girls whom they have seldom seen beside their mothers.

Have Plenty of Activities.

"The North Dakota College of Agriculture is doing a great work just now in preparing little dramas adapted to rural life and for use in country communities. The little play may be insignificant in its final form, but it is the fun of getting it up that counts."

Mrs. Meredith said that one of the greatest ideals for all of us should be to learn well to follow a leader and to subordinate ideas to those of another. Too much emphasis, she believes, has been placed upon getting leaders and too little upon the training of the great majority to follow.

"Great leadership requires that persons shall apply their knowledge and personality to the needs and open their homes to the young people of the community for rural betterment. Great opportunity does'nt come without the giving of something.

"The tenant farmer is a great problem in almost every community. While I do not advocate that we shall take him and his family into the intimate friendships of our family, I do say that the great need of rural betterment demands that he and his family be received into the collective friendship and association of the community."

Consolidated Schools Are Good.

Indiana has 685 consolidated schools, but the speaker does not believe that they are a cure-all for rural ills, even educational needs. A better work is the keeping of 500 teachers in their districts all the year round. In the summer they work in the homes instead of at school.

The state federation of women clubs in Mrs. Meredith's state has led in an agitation for permanent homes for the school teacher like the parsonage for the preacher. Mrs. Meredith came directly here from attending federation meetings in her state and will return there tonight for a home economics convention.

Mrs. Meredith changed her address somewhat from a rural to a women's lecture when she saw that most of her hearers were the rural teachers. She told of the life of Alice Freeman Palmer, called to be president of Wellesley college at an early age, and for so many years dean of women at the University of Chicago.

Her husband and biographer said of her that the great shaping influences of her life were her country rearing and narrow circumstancecs. The determining influence was persistent, careful, systematic, intelligent labor She was careful to see that no part of her work ever became mechanical.

Righteousness, Not Science, Needed.

"Secretary Carver, head of the rural organization service of the federal department of agriculture has said that the preacher of righteousness and not the scientific agriculturalist would solve the problem of the country. Mr. Carver was a Harvard professor before entering the government work, and the statement comes with all the more force from a man in such a position.

"Preaching is being done outside the pulpit as well as within the ministry. I say readily to you that I do not believe that we can win heaven by working for it, but that wonderful immortality will come to us only by working for the uplift of the neighbor and the one who is down."

One Bible Woman Great.

"Only one woman in the Bible is her afternoon lecture to the women on her afetrnoon lecture to the women on 'The Great Woman.' That woman is not even named, but it was the Shunamite woman at whose home Elisha stayed. And it says of her that she was a good housekeeper.

"Why was she great? First she had discernment because she saw that Elisha was a great man. She had decision because she made her husband build a new spare room for the preacher. She had judgment because when she was offered a chance to enter the court of the king she replied that her place was at home and that she chose to dwell with her own people."

Mrs. Meredith said that a woman need not look beyond the home for a place to become great. She reiterated the statement of the morning that the great work of the world was to save souls and that woman could do that best in the home.

To be a successful homemaker a woman must let her housework get on her muscles instead of her nerves. She must have poise and simplicity and manage herself. She must have knowledge of all conveniences and methods and how to get and use them. She must have common sense enough to choose recreations and get away from the house once in a while.

"It is easy for a person to earn a dollar comparatively, but it is a different proposition to spend it wisely. But almost every dollar in the United States is spent in homemaking.

"Should not an individual who has to do this spending have all the training that can be given her?" was Mrs. Meredith's great afternoon message.

COMMUNITY IDEALS.

"No mother's child is safe until every other mother's child is safe. Service for all by each and for each by all is the great ideal of family life. A woman's business is not housekeeping; that is merely the instrument through which she accomplishes her great business, the saving of souls.

Women demand three things for themselves in modern life. Social justice, a square deal for their child, and tolerance for woman's activities. The ancestral and traditional aspects of women will be heightened and deepened rather than removed by increased knowledge of and participation in the events of the world.

I once believed strongly in heredity; today I believe more and more in environment. A queen bee is a queen because of larger cell, more food and better care."—Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith.

MANY WOMEN HERE

ROOM FOR CONFERENCES CROWDED BY HOMEMAKERS.

Mrs. Lela Bellows Tells of "Co-Operation in Community Life—Economics Questions Interesting.

A crowded room with a number of women standing up greeted the speakers for the first women's conference yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Lela Bellows of Maryville spoke on "Co-Operation in Community Development." She said that in most places the people were lying in indifference like sleeping giants, not knowing their strength if they would only get together. She spoke of the closeness of the whole world today as shown by the wireless telephone messages across the Atlantic, and said that we must learn to be more neighborly.

Miss Kneeland told the women of various suggestions for preparing the daily menu. She urged that women should keep a record of the meat and other supplies to see whether they are spending too much. The planning of meals in advance so that the proper variety may be secured was recommended.

Miss Hettie M. Anthony of the Normal spoke on "Home Economics in Community Development." She said that millions were being spent on corn and hog development and very little on the child.

"It is just as important that the growing child get protein, the muscle builder, in proper amounts, as it is that the shoat does. Yet many a child is stupid and even degenerate because of misfeeding. And girls can be taught to dress their dolls in the latest fashions or in sensible styles as well as if every doll were a baby."

WORK ON ROCK ISLAND.

Three Coaches Into Ditch Near Proctor, Ark.—None Seriously Hurt.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Proctor, Ark., Oct. 30.—The Rock Island Texas express was wrecked near here, due to a broken rail. Three coaches went into ditch. None are seriously hurt.

NEW CABINET MET.

Each Solemnly Pledged Himself to Make Every Sacrifice for Victory.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Paris, Oct. 30.—First meeting of new cabinet formed by Aristide Briand was held and each solemnly pledged himself to make every sacrifice for victory and that they would be guided solely by patriotism.

MORGAN IS BETTER.

An Operation for Appendicitis on the Financier Proved Successful.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Oct. 30.—J. P. Morgan, head of the great banking firm of Morgan & Co., and only a short time ago the victim of an assassin's bullet, passed a comfortable night last night after having been operated on for appendicitis at noon yesterday. His condition is announced by his physicians as satisfactory in every way.

EXPLORER ON NEW TRIP.

Steffanson Left With Two Ships to Explore New Continent Just Discovered.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Dawson City, Alaska, Oct. 30.—Steffanson, the explorer, who recently returned from the far north, where he discovered a new continent, left here today on a new trip to start again the exploration of the new land. He carried supplies for a long stay. The ships North Star and Polar Bear were used.

Miss Althea Miller and Miss Crawford of Graham, are in Maryville to attend the county teachers' meeting and while here are the guests of Miss Mollie Hall.

AUSTRIANS LOST 50,000

In Ten Days Fighting on Italian Front —Italians Making Progress.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Paris, Oct. 30.—It is estimated that the Austrians lost 50,000 killed, wounded and taken prisoners in ten days fighting on Italians front. Italians are continuing their terrific offensive against Plezzo, Gorizia and Tolmino and are making progress.

BARNARD BEAT PICKERING

Final Score Was 47 to 26, But Losers Lead at End of First Half 22-21—A Good Game.

Barnard beat Pickering high school in a game of basket ball in the Normal gymnasium yesterday afternoon 47-26. The game was not that one-sided, however, as Pickering was leading in the first half 22-21.

Barnard won by the ability to use the short pass. Pickering tried to throw from one end of the court to the other almost every time. The work of Paul Spaulding at center and of the two forwards for Barnard, Virgil Robinson and Eugene Gardner, was notable.

Several of the high school men here watched the game with interest. And they'll keep their eyes on Barnard for that county championship.

MEAL FOR 70 FOR $1.65

Training School Eighth Grade Demonstrates Possibility of Economy in Menus at Meal Yesterday.

A nice meal for seventy persons for $1.65 was the seemingly impossible feat which was performed by the eighth grade of the Normal training school yesterday. The class has been doing work under Miss Anna Bainum, assistant to Miss Anthony, in the economy of preparing meals.

The menu was all worked out by the children themselves, and the parents of most of them were present to enjoy the meal at noon in the rooms of the training school just at the close of the morning sessions.

Here was what every person was offered: Apple salad with cooked dressing, wafers and cider, two bread and butter sandwiches. The estimate of the pupils was that the meal would cost at least $2.50, but the total was only $1.65.

DR. FRACKER WILL SPEAK

Presbyterian Educational Superintendent to Hold Conference at Maryville Church Tomorrow.

The Rev. George D. Fracker, Ph. D., superintendent of religious education of the Presbyterian synods of Iowa, Missouri and Kansas, will arrive in Maryville tonight from Kansas City, and tomorrow will conduct a Sunday school workers' conference at the First Presbyterian church.

While here Mr. Fracker will be the guest of Prof. George H. Colbert, who is an old friend and school associate, and of the pastor, the Rev. William Moll Case.

Dr. Fracker is an acknowledged leader in religious education. He is particularly fitted for this work by his long educational career.

Following his graduation from the state university of Iowa, Dr. Fracker was assistant teacher of psychology in Columbia university. He then taught for eight years in the public schools of Iowa, followed that by a ten-year period as teacher in Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and then taught four years in the Michigan state normal at Marquette, Mich.

Mr. Fracker's special duty on his trip to Maryville and other places in his territory is to present the Presbyterian plan for the religious educational work of the individual church. In his lectures, Dr. Fracker has a faculty of making every one who hears him sit up and take notice of the things he advocates. His theme is "Organization and Administration of Church Educational Work."

Dr. Fracker will have a part in the other services of the day at the Presbyterian church, and the afternoon conference is open to everyone.

Returns to Chicago.

Edwin Bellows of Chicago returned to his home last night after a few days visit in the city with his brothers, Charles and Fayette Bellows and families.

3 MORE MEETINGS

POLK, UNION AND INDEPENDENCE YET TO BE HELD.

POLK ON NOVEMBER 7

Union Also to Be Held On the Same Day, Independence a Week Later—White Cloud Tomorrow.

With the organization of a Sunday school association in Polk, Union and Independence townships, the work in Nodaway county will be completed. Polk township Sunday schools will meet Sunday, November 7, the same day as the Union township meeting will be held. The Independence township meeting will be held a week later, or November 14. There will be a meeting at Arkoe tomorrow to organize an association in White Cloud.

The president of the county association, H. C. Bower, and the secretary, Miss Eva Davis, will attend these meetings. An exhibit of the Sunday school work will be sent to the state convention, which meets in St. Louis on November 16-18. Miss Davis will probably attend.

The following is the program for Polk township meeting to be held in the First Christian church on Sunday, November 7:

2:00 p. m.—Praise service, led by the Christian choir.

7:45—Address by Rev. J. M. Plummer, pastor of Pickering Christian church.

8:15—Address by Rev. E. R. Kelly, pastor of Pickering M. E. church.

The afternoon program will be given in the Christian church and the evening program in the M. E. church.

Seattle Visitors Leave.

Mrs. William Johnston of Seattle, Wash., and her small son, William, Jr., who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Johnston's brothers, Charles and Fayette Bellows and families and other relatives, left this morning for their home. They were accompanied to St. Joseph by Charles Bellows, Jr.

TO GIVE RURAL TRACK MEET

A rural track meet under the auspices of the Nodaway County Teachers Association was planned for this morning in the business meeting of the pedagogues. All details were left to a committee but it is known that it will be along the lines of the meet held this week by the training school.

Coach Walter Hanson is chairman of the committee and manager of the meet. The other members are Miss Boggs, head of the girls' athletics at the Normal; Eugene Bird of Hopkins; Leonard Mendenhall, Barnard; George W. Somerville, Clearmont; Paul Becker, Maryville high school.

The committee will meet at the call of the chairman in the near future to make the plans. Sectional meets may be held instead of a county contest.

INDECISIVE IN BALKANS

SUCCESS IS CLAIMED BY EACH SIDE IN SERVIA.

Russian Troops Are On Way to Bulgaria to Join Allies Around Constantinople.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Sofia, Oct. 30.—It is announced that the Bulgarians have captured Pirot, the strongest fortress in eastern Servia along the Timok valley. The Serbians are in retreat. Several villages were captured by the Bulgarians and the French advance from the south has been repulsed.

Contradicted by Athens Report.

London, Oct. 30.—The dispatch from Sofia is contradicted by an Athens dispatch which says that the French captured Strumnizta while Geneva says the Servians are holding position in the Timok valley.

Russia Sending Troops.

Bucharest, Oct. 30.—A great fleet of transports carrying Russians for Bulgarians invasion left Odessa for Sebastapole, convoyed by warships.

The Russians are again shelling Bulgaria Black Sea coast to open a way for landing. Bourges was nearly destroyed by the Russians.

Heavy Artillery Fire.

Constantinople, Oct. 30.—It is announced that the heavy artillery fire continues on both sides in the Dardanelles.

Stopped Because of Unfriendliness to the Carranza Government — Lieutenant Court Martialed.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Galveston, Oct. 30.—According to cablegrams The Mexican Herald was suspended from publication today because of articles antagonistic to the Carranza government. It is also reported that Lieutenant J. M. Ruis was court martialed on a charge of being a member of the squad that arrested President Madero.

WERE TORPEDO FRAGMENTS.

Navy Experts First Found That Fragments of Steel from Hesperion Were From a Mine.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Experts of the navy department reported to the state department that the steel fragments found on the liner Hesperian after the explosion of the vessel in the Irish sea, were parts of a torpedo and not a mine. It was at first reported that a mine exploded the ship. Representations to the German government will be made on the new finding, through either Von Bernstorf or Gerard.

VILLA'S FORCES ADVANCING.

On Agua Prieta, Which Is Held by the Carranzasts, and Battle Is Expected Today.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Oct. 30.—General Funston reports that Villa's forces are advancing from the east on Agua Prieta, which is held by the Carranzasts. They are only twelve miles apart and battle is expected to begin today.

TEACHERS HEAR EACH OTHER TALK

OAKERSON SPEAKS TO JOINT SESSION

Elementary and Secondary Teachers Then Divide for Particular Problems—Normal Faculty Speak.

"Consolidation of districts is the only solution of the problem in many rural communities," said W. M. Oakerson, assistant state superintendent of schools and former county superintendent of Nodaway county, in the principal address of the Teachers' association.

Elm Grove distrist, which recently built such a fine new school house has an assessed valuation of $135,000. Swinford district has but $35,000. Will anything but consolidation smooth out that inequality of opportunity for education of those children."

Mr. Oakerson discussed the state aid for schools. He said that sixty-two schools in the county get aid from the state as an attempt to make the inequalities less flagrant.

Prof. Egbert Jennings, county superintendent of the Gentry county schools, was chairman of the joint session which Professor Oakerson addressed. Prof. H. B. Schuler of the Normal sang a solo and Prof. Harry Miller gave a reading. The teachers then divided into sections, the elementary teachers remaining in the auditorium for a conference on their work, conducted by Prof. S. E. Davis, head of the department of education of the Normal.

Prof. W. J. Osburn of the department of psychology of the Normal, was the first speaker of the elementary conference. "Troublesome Types of Children and How to Deal With Them" was his subject.

"The school work of this country is too much memory and too little initiative," said Mr. Osburn. "We punish too much as a penalty and too seldom with a motive of replacing a bad tendency with a good one.

He then took up the actual teaching work of the schools. Athletics and games as a spur to good effort were indorsed. He recommended careful effort on the part of the teacher to discover whether the child is mentally and physically normal. Many a boy is bad because he has much surplus energy, he said. We should seek the aid of the parents in correcting all faults.

W. H. Burr, in a short talk on the gradation and classification of pupils, urged the use of the Missouri course of study as a guide for more system in the lessons and better supplementary work.

Three five-minute talks were then made on "What I have done to bring about a closer relation between the school and the community." Miss Ruby Ruddell said that her experience has been that the best way to get along is to get acquainted.

Orlo W. Bond said that he tried as far as possible to make the school house a social center in which literary societies, clubs, little fairs and any entertainments may meet. A trading library was recommended as a great help in interesting parts of a community.

Miss Naomi Horne told of her work in the Lasher district with the Homemakers club, which meets every two weeks, and the lecture course which is being put on by her school this year in a rural district.

Dean George H. Colbert closed the elementary program with a discussion of "How to Teach Arithmetic." He said that a successful teacher of that branch of school work must have three qualifications: To know the student, the subject, and then to use "gumption." Things must be found as subjects for the problems which will interest the individuals with whom the teacher works. The teacher must also know that numbers are an abstract thing and understand how they are built.

High School Section.

Prof. W. M. Westbrook had charge of a sectional meeting to discuss the work of the secondary schools. Prof.

Announcement.

We are authorized to announce Robert I. Young of Buchanan county, as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Fourth district subject to the primary election to be held August 8, 1916.

Tonight is Hallowe'en. If you believe in preparedness, prepare.

King George doesn't seem to know any more about horseback riding than he does about war.

This has been a great week for the farmers. There has been a most excellent program at the institute here and there has been fine weather for work at home.

Isn't it awful, these Democratic hard times! Why, poor Jake Babler, chairman of the Republican state committee, needed a pig pen on his country place, near St. Louis, and had to build it out of reinforced concrete, with shower baths and separate dining rooms.—St. Louis Times.

Every Democratic member of congress who helped to put President Wilson's policies into effect, should be returned the coming election. The Democratic party is on trial now—and no new and unseasoned timber is needed during this period.—St. Joseph Observer.

MADE A BAD BARGAIN.

Twenty dollars a year is the salary a Nodaway county man can earn in the next twelve months by keeping out of Maryville. He was fined $20 on a charge of drunkenness and a stay entered provided he would absent himself from the city for that period. Maryville is such a good town that it would seem the defendant has made a bad bargain by not paying the fine.—St. Joseph Observer.

NEW OWNER HERE.

Ward Derossett Takes Possession of the Toggery Shop.

Ward Derossett of Savannah, the new owner of the Toggery Shop, who purchased it last week from R. W. Pettit, took possession yesterday of the business. Mr. Derossett expects to bring his family to Maryville at once to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Pettit will leavcv Monday for San Diego, Cal., where they will spend the winter with Mr. Pettit's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pettit.

INFANT CHILD DIES.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Verline, the 13-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, living seven miles south of the city, died at 7 o'clock this morning.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the White Cloud Baptist church, south of the city, and the burial will be in the White Cloud cemetery.

To Visit in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Souls of Mount Ayr, Ia., who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. C. E. Gregory left yesterday for Bedford, Ia., to visit Arnold Souls and family.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

George W. Somerville discussed "Why Do High School Pupils Quit Before Finishing the Course, and How Remedy." He urged that the school be made more attractive, but said that even attractiveness might be overdone.

This State Normal school is most attractive, but even it couldn't withstand the drawing qualities of some fine October days, Prof Hawkins said in a discussion which followed. Discussion of vocational subjects was held. The speaker held that there were some boys and girls who might as well be let go.

Miss Bessie Cox of the Barnard high school spoke on "How to Vitalize the Teaching of High School English." She urged the impressing of the fundamentals first, then much reading of the classics and masterpieces. The student must be allowed imagination and other books beside the textbooks must be used. Free discussion of lectures from a literary standpoint in the class room was recommended.

Prof. Albert Harris of Pickering high school said that he would leave Latin and similar subjects out of the course for a two-year high school. He urged that the curriculum be built more for the majority who never get any more schooling instead of for the few who go on to high schools and college.

Prof. G. N. Geyer of the Graham schools, in a discussion of the topic, said that one must suit a two-year course to local needs, but that there were certain broad subjects that were needed anywhere. He warned against the omitting of the cultural element in education.

T. W. Cooper of the Skidmore schools urged that some means be found of sending home reports which would stimulate interest by the parent. The grading of papers and then sending them to the parents was recommended. Getting parents to visit the school was mentioned as one of the most effective of means for creating interest in the report cards.

Prof. W. M. Westbrook spoke of social work in the high school. He said that we might as well recognize that social life in the school can't be made to compete with picture shows. He outlined briefly the clubs and social center work of the Maryville high school.

Institute Notes

The banquet which was to have been held tonight was called off by the committee because of the apparent lack of interest on the part of the farmers for whom it was being arranged.

The art exhibit of the training school is one of the distinctive features of the week. The work done by the pupils is of very high order and many of the visitors have remarked over the excellence of the art exhibit.

Eighty-four boys took the seed corn provided by A. R. Hills last spring and forty-one of them had brought in samples yesterday afternoon. Mr. Hills is offering special cash prizes amounting to $25.50 in this section, the first being $10, second $7.50, third $5, and three more at $1 each.

Clotilda King and Elizabeth Abels, 13 and 14 years old, of the convent at Clyde have drawn attention to themselves by their butter making. Both were prize winners.

One part of the exhibit looks like a corner of Santa Claus' sled, where the twenty-seven dolls are placed. A fashion show is also given by the dressing of the dolls for the prizes.

One chocolate cake with the letters "Liberty School" embossed in white and one angel food cake with "Maryville, Oct. 27 to 30," written in pink are getting considerable attention of visitors. The chocolate cake was baked by Miss Maggie Lawrence, aged 10, and the angel food by Miss Jennie Cox, age 14.

Miss Hildegarde Kneeland assisted Miss Hettie M. Anthony in judging the Home Economics exhibits. She is a member of the home economics department of the extension division of the University of Missouri.

The long stalks of alfalfa and clover drew the farmers around who were not familiar with the former. Exhibits of freaky size, as a sunflower fifteen inches across and a huge turnip were also present.

Those in charge of the exhibit say that no one in particular was suspected, but it was noticed that some care-taker was kept near the table upon which the tempting home-made candy was placed.

A large color map of North America by Margaret Neidel of the eighth grade of the Mt. Pleasant school was admired. Mt. Pleasant was one of the well represented schools.

The Y. W. C. A. of the Normal has had a booth in the lower hall all the week, where attractive posters and more attractive home-made candy from the chafing dishes of the damsels have been sold.

The new Normal road has become very dusty with the automobiles, jitneys and other vehicles which have crowded out to the administration building this week.

The Hallowe'en festivals of the training school were very attractive. The pumpkins and other posters were cut out by the kindergarten department. Grades 2, 3 and 4 designed and cut out the pictures of cats, mice and bats; the candle shades were made by grades 5 and 6, and the decorations and invitations were designed and made by the eighth grade. The seventh grade were guests of the other grades.

Forty-four loaves of bread along a long table have attracted much attention from the women, because they were baked by girls under 20.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

FINISH SOWING WHEAT.

During the last few weeks farmers have had many false alarms on account of small hopping insects which have been mistaken for the Hessian fly. Many samples of these leaf-hoppers are being received by the Missouri agricultural experiment station. They are small and when very abundant in wheat may injure it somewhat if warm weather continues long enough, but their injury is usually not severe.

These leaf-hoppers vary from an inch to a quarter of an inch in length, jump as grasshoppers do, and may be green, gray or variously colored and striking. In addition to these points which distinguish them from the tiny mosquito-like Hessian flies, the hoppers have four wings while the fly has only two.

As there are rarely any Hessian flies feeding this late in the fall, all wheat sowing should be finished at once if not already done. There need be absolutely no delay on account of the hoppers.

THE CLOSED ROAD

By KEITH KENYON.

When Bert Perry closed his desk on Friday night he hadn't any very distinct idea of where to go, but as he passed to the elevator and looked at the door of the office that used to be Jane Tenny's he decided on a trip to Piney Roads. Jane Tenny had been a public stenographer, but when things had grown dull in Wall street she had given up her business venture and moved off to Piney Roads to seek her fortune in chickens and fruit farming.

It was a six o'clock Saturday evening and Bert decided that his first stop would be at the Piney Roads hotel.

"It's a neatly kept little place," thought Bert, as he surveyed the symmetrical rows of hollyhocks on either side of the path, "although it doesn't seem very large."

Then he sounded his horn for someone to come and take his car, but no one seemed to be stirring and there was no sign of a garage. He sounded long and impatiently until at last from behind the house appeared an old man in overalls.

"There ain't any garage round here," drawled the man. "You'll have to take your machine down to the crossing."

"Where is the proprietor?" Bert was getting impatient and, as the old man seemed not to understand, he added, "the man who keeps the place, I mean."

"Oh, now I understand," drawled the old man, chuckling. "It ain't a man—it's a lady. She was back in the orchard picking cherries, and she said she had just stepped in to tidy up a bit and would be out soon. Here she is."

When Bert caught sight of a pink dress and then he recognized Jane—Jane, whose interesting, pale face had grown positively pretty since her sojourn in the country.

And how unembarrassed and cordial she was! She really seemed to be glad to see him.

"From the garden I could see it was you," she said, "and I just had to take off my sunbonnet. I don't want you to make fun of my farming."

There followed a few explanations.

"No, I am not the proprietor of the hotel," Jane assured him. "There must be some mistake in the road book. In fact, you are the third tourist today who has come here with that idea. And you really came all the way up here to see me? Why didn't you let me know?"

Just then another car pulled into that driveway, a car of French build that made Bert's modest roadster look insignificant.

"I say," called one of its two occupants to the farmer, who was just making his way back to the orchard, "where is the garage of this establishment? We'll drive right in and you have the proprietor ready to see us when we get back here. We've only twenty minutes for dinner."

"That's the way it's been all the afternoon," said Jane, when she had explained to the distinguished-looking tourists that her modest little house made no pretentions at being a hostelry.

"That's a great disappointment," said one of the men. "It promised to be something out of the ordinary in the way of inns. When I saw it I felt certain you'd give us a dinner worth eating. What? Back one road? Thank you."

"I've been looking at your road book and it says that the way to get to the inn is to turn at the second road after you leave the pike. Well, the county has just closed up the first road and put a row of poplars across it. That accounts for the confusion."

It was not until after Jane's delightful little supper, served on the open veranda, that she showed her guest over the place, the orchards and the berry patches, the poultry yard and the neatly kept truck garden.

"But the worst of it all is," she confessed rather dolefully, "it doesn't pay any better than Wall street."

"Jane, I've just had an inspiration," he said, very solemnly. "You say that you want to make some money. Why, this very afternoon you have had a chance to make more money than we've been making in Wall street for a week, or that you can get from your farm for many a day. The inn down the road is no good, I am told, and the owner doesn't care whether he has any patrons or not. There are dozens of motorists along here every day who would stop for dinner or luncheon if they knew you had good things to eat. This road catches an unusually high-class traffic. Think about it, and in the meantime don't write to the road book people to change the directions."

"It's too much of an undertaking for a woman alone. If I had a man to go in with me—" She blushed in spite of herself as she realized the full significance of those words.

"Jane," he said, "I've been waiting for this chance for more than a year. I'm tired of being a broker. Let's go into partnership. I'll buy out your place here and you go on raising hollyhocks and wearing becoming pink gowns, and I'll bloom forth as a country hotelkeeper. How does it strike you, little girl?"

"I think you would make an ideal boniface," she laughed bewitchingly.

PHONES—OFFICE 42. HOME 683

Motor Party.

Mrs. Hattie Patterson, Miss Edith Patterson and Ralph Patterson and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright and children, Hazel and Harold of Harrisonville, Mo., motored to Maryville Tuesday and spent the day visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson.

Entertains Class.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Garten entertained classes five and six with a Hallowe'en party Thursday night at the Hall home. Everything in the way of entertainment decoration and supper was in colors and designs suggestive of Hallowe'en. About forty guests were entertained.

Mr. Leet Host.

Mr. H. F. Leet entertained a party of friends at a card supper last night at his home, on East Fourth street. The guests were W. C. Pierce, F. P. Reuillard, Bert Raines, Will J. Montgomery, W. F. Phares, Augustus Rommsser and C. W. Yehle.

Entertains Society.

Mrs. James F. Colby entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church with a kensington and tea yesterday afternoon at her home A part of the time was devoted to the discussion of business plans for winter work, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent socially.

School Gives Party.

The patrons and teacher of the Garrett school district enjoyed a Hallowe'en party given by the children Thursday afternoon at the school house. A James Whitcomb Riley program was given and the school house was decorated with autumn leaves and Hallowe'en colors and emblems. Refreshments of pop corn and candy were served by the pupils of the eighth grade.

McDowell Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McDowell were the hosts of a dinner party given Thursday noon at their country home at which plates were laid for Mrs. Hattie Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright and children Hazel, Harold, Edith and Ralph of Harrisonville, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson, A. T. McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ferguson, Miss Mabel Patterson, Robert and James Patterson, Forrest McDowell and the hosts.

Guild Entertained.

The Westminster Guild met Thursday night at the home of Miss Helen Leffler, holding one of the most entertaining meetings of the fall. After a short business meeting during which plans for future work were discussed the study was taken up with Mrs. William Moll Case as leader. The home had been attractively decorated with autumn leaves and Jack-o'-lanterns and an autumn supper was served during the social hour. Miss Jessie Parcher and Miss Helen Todd assisted the hostess.

Surprise Party.

The Merry Minglers Club arranged a surprise yesterday for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henson, who are leaving soon for Trinity, Texas, to make their home. The hours were spent informally and those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smock, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lund, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stein and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Dever, Mr. and Mrs. James Lacy and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Belcher and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Dickerson, Mrs. E. A. Nelson and family, Mrs. F. A. H. H. Club Entertains.

The H. H. Club gave a Hallowe'en party last night at the home of Miss Eva Burks, entertaining the members and a few other friends. The home was attractive with autumn leaves and Hallowe'en colors and the evening was devoted to the games and amusements significant of the night. A three course supper was served and the table was centered with a cleverly arranged pumpkin piece. With the last course a large Hallowe'en cake was served, the cake when cut, being made of Hallowe'en favors for each guest. After supper, the guests went out doors where around a large bonfire they told ghost stores and toasted marshmallows Tose present were Mr. and Mrs. William Bosch, Miss Nellie Morford, Miss Eva Burks, Miss Stella Wilson, Miss Myrtie Null, Miss Hazel Burks, Miss Bessie Ashford, Miss Ida Bosch, Edward Hanna, Erma Hackett, Otho McDowell, Allen Burks, Russell Neal, Virgil Hyde and Prof. George Harris.

Gives Hallowe'en Party.

Miss Josephine Wilderman was the hostess on an attractively arranged Hallowe'en party given last night at the Wilderman home, on East Lawn avenue. The entire home was decorated with autumn leaves and favors of the season. Both outside and inside the guests were greeted by the proper number of ghosts, and after their arrival were served cider from a huge pumpkin well, Miss May Mahoney serving, assisted by Miss Greta Kemp and Miss Alice Mahoney. Fortunes were told by two amateur clairvoyants Miss Doris Sayler, dressed as a witch, and Harley Hughes, disguised as a gipsy, both of whom proved very popular in their roles. In a musical romance, read by the hostess and accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. T. L. Wilderman, the most correct answers were given by Miss Doris Sayler, who won the prize. After supper was served the entire party gathered in the living room, the lights were turned low and ghost stories told, Philip Colbert taking the leading role. The hostess was assisted during the evening's entertainment by Mr. and Mrs. Wilderman, Miss Eva Rittenour, Miss Doris Sayler, Misses May and Alma Mahoney, Hazel Littler, Greta Kemp, Vera Hughes and Odette Wilderman, William Hutchison, Omar Lyle, Eugene Yehle, Clark Evans, Earley Hughes and Martin Lewis, Jr.

Entertain at Manse.

The Rev. and Mrs. William Moll Case entertained the members of the choir of the First Presbyterian church with a Hallowe'en party at the Manse last night. The evening was one of merry making and various games and contests provided amusement. The home was attractive with decorations of Hallowe'en favors and colors. A three reel movie was one of the main features and partners were chosen for supper by the girls guessing the names of a tune hummed by the men. Fortunes were placed in black witch figures and each hunted until one of them was found. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, Miss Mary Lewis, Miss Helen Todd, Miss Jean Horn, Miss Edna Deitz, Miss Martha Koch, Miss Blanche Criswell, Miss Neva Sage, Miss Lois Farmer, Harvey McClary, Fred Lewis, Harold Staples, Fred Vandersloot, Mr. Price, Mr. Elliott and Prof. George McGrew.

Miss Swinford Hostess.

Miss Lavisa Swinford entertained a number of her friends last night with a Hallowe'en party at her home. The rooms were brightened with the season's colors of orange and black and autumn leaves. The time was spent with informal games and a supper was served. The guests were Miss Alta Doyle, Miss Maud Helpley, Miss Lois Wiley, Miss Martha Helpley, Miss Mina Everist, Miss Anice Garten, Miss Helen Davis, Miss Marie Landfather, Miss Ada Gingrich, Virgil Vulgamott, Orlo Gingrich, Sam Vulgamott, Virgil Grooms, Dean Partridge, Ralph Wray, Merle Selecman, Walter Wilson, James Halasey, Arthur Wilson and Harry Jones.

Celebrates Fifth Birthday.

Isabel, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hamlin, celebrated her fifth birthday anniversary yesterday and to mark the day, she invited a party of her small friends in to spend the afternoon. The gathering was a Hallowe'en party and the favors and games were of the spirit of that day. The colors of pink and white were used in the refreshments served. Mrs. Hamlin was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Fidelia Gearhart, Miss Clara Young and Miss Lois Hall in entertaining the children present who were Lois Gilbert, Marian Gann, Elizabeth Flynt, Edwyna Forsyth, Katherine Chandler, Esther Roseberry, Eva Margaret Frank, Gladys Holmes, Winifred, Mary and Genevieve Todd, Margaret Louise Moyer, Beverly Alice Martin, Eula Yowell, Lillian Hall, Oliver Manley, Edwin Manley, James Frank and Isabel Hamlin.

Gives Weiner Roast.

Miss Eva Dawson, Miss Ethel Woods, Miss Irene Aley, Miss Myrtle Jones, Misses Verna and Genie Aley and Miss Stella McDowell enjoyed a picnic supper and weiner roast at the Aley farm north of the city last night.

BRIDGE WORK FINISHED.

Seven New Bridges Built and a Few Repaired—Starting Work in Jefferson Township.

Judge Matt Farnan, a member of the county court, returned yesterday evening from an inspection trip in Washington and Jefferson townships to see the bridge work being done. In Washington township, seven new bridges have been built by the county and several have been repaired and refloored. The work there amounts to about $1,500 and is now nearly finished. Charles and John Hollensbee had the contract, working under direction of J. E. Reece.

They are now starting in Jefferson township on bridges, two have already been built and several more yet to build and repair.

PLUS PROFITS

Business is in a constant state of evolution. It is a mistake to think that any one stage—the present for example—is final

Methods that worked splendidly a few years ago will spell failure if applied today. The merchants who depend on personal influence, who waits for the buyer to come along, are the ones who are increasing the per centage of business failures.

You wouldn't go back to the days of the errand boy for telepone, the courier for the telegraph service, The modern, the successful and the method of today in selling merchandise is by advertising. It is the greatest insurance against loss in merchandising that has ever been invented. It is the Plus Profit method.

Look around you. Who is the successful merchant, the successful business man of today? Certainly it is the advertiser, the man who goes after trade with publicity,

Watch the advertisers of the commuity and although you may know nothing of that community otherwise, you have a very nearly sure knowledge of who are the leading merchants of that community. You will find that Mr. Advertiser is the one who is doing the most and profitable business. He is the one who is adding profits instead of waiting for profits which never come.

You can't expect to sell goods unless you tell the buyer about them. Modern buying is done first through the advertising. It is getting to be the rule that most buying is done before the buyer ever reaches the store. It is done by the Plus Profit method of the successful bnsiness man, the merchant who tells the buyer about his goods through advertising.

ABOUT HEAVES IN HORSES

Heaves is a very common and annoying disease of horses, interfering seriously with the usefulness of the animal, and consequently detracting from its value. Mainly a disease of old horses, it is essentially the result of faulty feeding and working, especially hard pulling or fast driving when the stomach is overloaded. Gross feeders are frequently subjects of heaves.

Except in the very early stages the disease is readily detected. The symptoms are those which would naturally be manifested in a condition where the lungs are involved. A peculiar short, grunt-like cough is usually present, and when the animal is exerted a wheezing noise accompanies the breathing. The principal and characteristic symptom, however, is the jerky or double movement of the abdomen in an effort to force air from the lungs. The air passes into them freely, but the power to expel it is lost to a great extent; therefore the abdominal muscles are brought into play.

Indigestion is frequently observed in these cases, and the horse may have a depraved appetite, as shown by a desire to eat dirt and soiled bedding; and there is a tendency to the condition commonly termed "potbellied." The animal, though a heavy feeder, becomes unthrifty and emaciated.

As in this condition structural changes have taken place in the lungs, treatment, as a rule, can only be directed to the relief of the symptoms, and it is not possible to effect a complete cure after the disease is established.

In the case of an affected horse it will be an advantage to dampen the food with a mixture of one part of molasses to three parts of water, so that no dust may arise while the animal is eating. It is also desirable to restrict the amount of hay or forage, as large quantities of bulky feed which distend the abdomen increase the difficulty, and an animal with heaves should never be driven or worked when full of such material.

In these cases Fowler's solution of arsenic may be given in doses of 1 ounce in the drinking water three times daily. Ordinary lime dissolved in drinking water (limewater) may be added to a barrel or cask of water, and after the resulting mixture has become clear through precipitation of undissolved portions of the lime the limewater may be used freely in watering the animal.

THE WALTZ

By LOUISE OLIVER.

Billy Kennard opened the door of his dreary little bedroom and held a match to the gas jet before removing his hat. The reflection that sprang into view in the mirror of the bureau showed a face strong and good-looking, but full of trouble-drawn lines.

Failure in one's life work—music it was with Billy—is bad enough, but to fall in love with a girl as far above you as the planets is just about the limit of human endurance. Tonight he had seen her again, more beautiful than ever.

He looked at himself now in the mirror. "You poor penniless fool," he muttered, "to go crazy over a girl when it's all you can do to live. Who are you to even think of her?"

But in spite of his words, he opened an evening paper to the society column. He watched daily for her name, or rather for her family's name, for he did not know which of the Etheridge girls she was.

An item caught his eye and he read it eagerly. The Etheridges were to be at the Arlingfords' bal masque on the next night! And he was to play there after the theater!

He finally went to bed and dreamed of columbines and shepherdesses, queens and flower girls, all with eyes like those of the girl he loved, begging him to play the "Dream" waltz.

The next day was years long, and the play that night dragged insufferably. At last he was free, however, and, with the other members of the orchestra, he put his violin in its case and took the subway to the Arlingfords.

He was accustomed to the extravagance of the rich, but the magnificence of the ballroom tonight fairly took his breath. "I must put all this nonsense of mine out of my head," he thought. "A girl accustomed to things like this is not for me even to think about." And resolving to put away forever the little waltz, the music he had learned to associate with the girl, he took his place among the musicians on the stage.

Henry of Navarre danced with Mother Goose, Napoleon with Dolly Madison, and a Crusader with Miss Muffet. Clowns and columbines, Turks and fairies, soldiers and milkmaids flew past in a mad whirl, but all were masked and Billy had no idea which maid might be the girl he adored.

In spite of his newly-made resolutions, he watched eagerly during the unmasking, hoping to catch a glimpse of the girl, but she was not to be seen.

A servant handed him an envelope. He read the inclosed note eagerly. Someone had asked him to meet her in the winter garden immediately.

Billy crushed the note into his pocket, made his excuses, and, with the aid of the servant, found the winter garden.

Under a bay tree, looking as demure as a Quakeress, was the missing Miss Etheridge. She smiled and held out her hand.

"Good evening, Mr. Kennard."

Billy was afraid to touch her hand, and more afraid to speak. But it was up to him to say something.

"I am—you are—that is—were you the person who sent for me?" he began awkwardly, after he had taken her hand for an instant. He knew he was bungling dreadfully and reddened.

"Yes. Won't you sit down?" She smiled.

"I sent for you," she went on, "to find out why you don't play that beautiful waltz you composed. I spoke to Mr. Richard Amberson, a friend of Mr. Etheridge, about it. He is the music publisher, you know, and he is here tonight waiting to hear your music."

Billy gasped. "You spoke to Richard Amberson for me! Why, if he'd take hold of my work it would make my fortune. How in the world can I thank you, Miss Etheridge?"

"Don't thank me! Besides I'm not Miss Etheridge. I'm Marjorie Watson, at your service," with a jolly little bow. "Poor relative and social secretary rolled into one, and treated better than she deserves by everyone," she added.

Billy's head was swimming. Things were happening too fast for him to comprehend.

His goddess was not only stepping down to earth smiling, but she was holding out promises for the future.

"It is all too wonderful to be true, Miss Watson. I can scarcely believe that I am awake. But I'll answer your question about the waltz. I have learned to associate it with you and—" he stopped.

"Well?" demurely.

"I cannot tell you part without telling all," he went on quickly, "and I cannot do that—now. You have known me only ten minutes and you wouldn't understand, I'm afraid. I thought you were Miss Etheridge," he added.

Marjorie stood up and laid her hand on his arm. "Perhaps I understand more than you think," she said. "Won't you come tomorrow and tell me all about it?"

"Yes," agreed Billy eagerly.

"Then let us go back so you can dig up your waltz from the bottom of the pile and play it for Richard Amberson," Marjorie said mischievously. "I'll hunt him up and tell him to listen."

MISS EVA MILLER WINS

Miss Cleta Rasco of Barnard Got Second—Boys Both Won, Being in Different Classes.

Miss Eva Miller of Clearmont won the girls' declamation contest in the auditorium last night with Longfellow's "Famine." This was the only real rivalry, as both of the boys were given gold medals, being in different classes, according to the size of the high schools.

The silver medal went to Miss Eva Rasco of Barnard, who gave Kate Douglas Wiggin's "The Ruggles Family." The third declamation by Miss Mary E. Barrrett of Skidmore, was good and she was rated high by the judges, but the length of her selection, "The Going of the White Swan," probably caused her defeat, as the rules of the contest caused a penalty for every minute more than the time allotted which was used.

Miss Katherine Carpenter played a violin solo in the place of the Normal quartet, which was on the program. Miss Elizabeth Hoover gave a reading which was much enjoyed, on "Baby Talk." She is a student at the Normal.

Berney Harris, Jr., of the Maryville high school and Albert Patton of Barnard were given gold medals for their addresses, as they were in different classes. Harris gave "The American Flag," by Beecher, and Patton "The Vision of War," by Robert Ingersoll. Each added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

PLANT FRUIT TREES AT ONCE.

All perfectly hardy trees should be transplanted in the fall rather than the following spring if we can rely upon the results of tests made at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. Jonathan apple trees planted in the fall made nearly twice as good a growth as those planted the next spring. Of cherry trees transplanted in the fall of 1913 every one lived while only a third of those planted in the spring of 1914 survived the dry summer of that year. Those which did live made only a quarter as good a growth as those planted the fall before. This comparison is based mainly on the terminal growth or length added to the branches which is a very important means of telling how an orchard is thriving. Even peach trees and others less hardy than apple and cherry trees do better when fall planted in the southern quarter of Missouri. Fall planting is better even farther north if followed by a mild winter but a severe winter is likely to kill the trees.

In ordering fruit trees for fall planting, insist that they be dug and shipped just when the leaves begin to fall and the remaining leaves can be easily stripped from the nursery stock. These young, rapidly growing trees hold their leaves from two weeks to a month longer than those in the orchard which have been bearing for some time. During most seasons the best time for transplanting is during the first half of November but planting any time before the ground freezes has been found to give better results than spring planting.—J. C. Whitten, Horticulture, University of Missouri.

BRIEF RESUMES OF MESSAGES TO FARMERS YESTERDAY.

Talbert, Childers, Severin and Miss Kneeland Tell of Various Farm Problems.

R. A. Kinnaird of the Normal spoke to the farmers this afternoon on "Tile Drainage". He dwelt particularly on seepage on hillsides, which are so common in rolling country. He said that this was caused by a layer of clay and that the tile must be placed above that or no good will be accomplished. The proper method of laying the tile, getting the grade and cementing the mouth with a grating to keep out small animals was told.

The problem of the school lunch was discussed by Miss Kneeland in the joint session this morning. She dwelt upon the fact that they should be changed from day to day and that a balanced meal rather than too much of any one kind of food be given for the noon meal away from home.

Mr. Gromer discussed in his morning speech the question of getting proper rural credit. The moving of crops, farm loans, mortgages and other problems were taken up. Several of the laws in this state and others were briefly taken up.

"One-fifth of the vegetable crop is destroyed yearly by insects. That means a $60,000,000 loss," said H. H. Severin of the deparment of biology at the Normal, who spoke to the men's section of the Farm and Home Institute yesterday afternoon on "Pests of the Home Garden." The various pests and their habits were described and all kinds of poisons, contact incesticides, repellants, and other means of removing the cause of so great a loss was outlined by Mr. Severin.

How to save the orchards from the ravages of the San Jose scale, the codling moth, the plum curculio, the canker worm, and the borers, were discussed by Mr. Talbert in the men's section this afternoon. This came with special interest to many of the Nodaway farmers there as a recent letter from an agricultural expert said that many Missouri apples could not be sold at all, and others have a slow sale because the orchards have not been sprayed and the fruit is not sound.

"Crop rotation," by Mr. Childers this afternoon continued his lectures to the farmers on the proper care of the soil, in saving waste and building up the land. A general summing up was made of the substance of his preceding lectures. Not only to vary crops on any field, but to have a proper sequence which will destroy pests and help the soil.

ALLEGED DRUNK WALKS LINE.

Nashville, Ind.—Justice of the Peace Duard Calvin has a novel plan of determining whether a man is drunk or sober. Marshal Reed arrested Lenville Copenhaver for drunkenness and took the man before the justice in the Calvin store. Calvin was entertaining a bunch of "loafers" and for their entertainment drew a chalk line forty feet long and told Copenhaver to walk the line.

The crowd gathered on each side of Copenhaver, and he walked the line without a misstep. At the far end of the line he stood on his hands and walked back. Calvin, above the roar of laughter, told Copenhaver he was dismissed.

To Wash Silk Lace.

Silk lace should be soaked in milk over night, then washed in warm soapsuds. Rinse and pin out smooth on a clean ironing board until dry. Do not iron it.

Orange Drink.

Orange juice can be made to serve as a most delicious drink if only a little thought and time be spent upon it. Serve chilled in tall glasses, with some diced banana, a grapefruit cut and seeded, a bit of pineapple or any seasonable fruit.
